ORDINANCE GOVERNING LICENSE IS DISCUSSED

Council Does Nothing On Matter Except To Arrange For Special Meeting.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

Washers Sent By The Eureka Hose Company Are Unsatisfactory.

Council in their regular adjourned session last night took up the license ordinance which has caused considerable trouble and worry, but no action of importance concerning it was taken except to appoint Thursday evening of this week, a time for a meeting for the special purpose of taking up the ordinance and passing it. The councilmen will go over the ordinance part by part and strike out what clauses they think unnecessary and put others in. It has already passed first reading. What perhaps will cause some contention will be the hawkers or peddlars' license, for selling various products from a wagon on the street. Councilman Frye last evening gave a number of good suggestions on the license question, which he had gleaned from the statutes of Pittsburg and other places.

Garbage collector and hauler Thomas Younger was present and voiced a complaint about having nothing to do. He said that as a rule his expenses were more than the income, and suggested that unless council provide a way out of his difficulties, he would ask for release. The matter, on motion was placed in the hands of the street committee to appear back to council.

Washers were displayed which had been sent by the Eureka Hose company for use in the Red Cross Hose [illegible]. A brief examination of the fact that very [illegible]sed in the making this is the second [illegible]tisfactory pieces have [illegible]ncilmen Frew and Hein [illegible] to the effect that the [illegible] notified that "if the hose [illegible]ten as the washers, which [illegible] sent, they had better take [illegible]e business off the borough's [illegible]. The motion was carried.

[illegible]ontract for the furnishing of [illegible]0 feet of 2 inch oak plank was awarded to the Baker-Mountsier Lumber company, of Pittsburg at the price of $25 per thousand feet.

Chairman Frye of the street committee made a report of the work that had been accomplished which had been placed in the hands of that body. He made a report of the alley back of the brick row and recommended that it be opened up by the street commissioner, in various places. The report was accepted. Mr. Frye also made a statement as to the matter of sewering property on the hill near the Charleroi Coal company's property, saying that little could be done except at considerable expense, and thought it not advisable to begin on such work, as the property which would be benefitted was not worth as much as the expense would be. The reports of the street committee as a whole was acceptod.

Eugene Morean was present asking for a sewer for his property. The matter was placed in the hands of the street committee with power to act.

MANY CARS SIDE-TRACKED FOR REPAIRS

The middle siding of the Monongahela Division on the P. R. R. at Riverview is crowded at the present time with a large number of coke cars, and their idleness at this time has caused some inquiry. It is learned, however, from reliable authority, that these cars are only awaiting an opportunity to be taken to the shops for repairs, which in many instances will be only of a minor character. Recently the railroad company issued an order for all cars requiring repairs amounting to $1.00 to be sent to the shops, and this order has caused quite a lot of them to be sidetracked. In the meantime the force of men at the shops is being increased, in order to push the repairs with all speed possible.

Since August 1, 10,000 additional cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad have been put into service, and the number of idle cars, 78,400, is now the smallest since the period of business depression set in.

WORK ON BOROUGH BUILDING ANNEX WELL UNDER WAY

The work on the annex of the borough building is progressing nicely under the supervision of Contractor W. A. Hazlett. The stone work on the building has been finished and the brick layers are now doing their part.

The laying of brick on the first story was begun on Friday and now on all sides has reached over one half the distance between the first and second floors. This work will probably be completed in eight or ten days after which the roof will be set, and work begun on the interior, the laying of floors, fixing stalls for horses partitioning, etc.

WILSON AND BERT HUMPHRIES FIGHT IT OUT YESTERDAY

Clarksburg Wins In The Fourth By Only Score Of Game.

GOT IT WITH TWO DOWN

Mr. Wilson from Clarksburg didn't demonstrate that he was any better pitcher than Bert Humphries yesterday afternoon but he got away with the contest just the same. Wilson allowed the Cherubs five hits, Bert Humphries issuing the same number to the Drummers. Wilson didn't walk a man, neither did Bert Humphries. In the strike-out line Wilson showed up a little better than Bert as he fanned five, while two took the bench after making healthy swings at Bert's fast ones. The Drummers never had a chance to cross the gum in the first three rounds and not until after two had gone to the bench in the fourth did they mark. McKenna and Clark opened up the fourth round and were both retired at first. Conoway had a safe one on his first visit to the plate and duplicated the trick on his second trip. Then McCombs who cavors around second base, smashed one for three bases which sent Conaway over. But one more hit was secured by the Drummers in the remaining rounds and that was secured by Dawson in the sixth inning. He was sacrificed to second by McKenna, where he perched while Clark and Conaway were retired.

Charleroi tried hard to score but could not get a man past second and in fact only two of them reached that station. In the first inning with two down Dunn single and purloined the second bag. Dailey retired the side by striking out. The next man to reach the middle mile stone was Cosgrove in the fourth. Conaway dropped the throw on his drive and Dunn sent him to second with a neat sacrifice. Had Dailey and O'Hara been able to connect safely the game would have gone into extra rounds, but Mr. Wilson couldn't see things that way, sending Dailey to the bench on a long fly to right while O'Hara was easy

CASE OF W. L. LENHART NOW ON TRIAL AT COURT

Brownsville Man Charged With Conspiracy To Defraud.

ATTORNEYS' WORDY WAR

What is considered to be the most important case of the present term is now on trial before Judge Taylor at Washington. The defendant is William L. Lenhart and the prosecutor is George B. Frantz. The case is one which grows out of the alleged embezzlement of the funds of the Peoples Bank of California by the cashier, O. F. Piper. Mr. Lenhart was involved in the wrecking of the bank and his name is connected with that of Piper in the criminal proceedings that have grown out of the affair.

The charge named in the indictment is embezzlement and receiving stolen goods. A true bill was found by the grand jury in February, but the case against Lenhart has been continued from term to term until the present. Lenhart has been under $10,000 bail since his arrest

A rather formidable array of attorneys has been retained in the case. The commonwealth is represented by District Attorney C. L. V. Acheson and the private prosecutor by McIlvaine, Vance and Gibson and Underwood and Meloy. Lenhart is represented by Irwin, Wiley and Morgan, of the local bar, and John M. Freeman, of the firm of Watson and Freeman, Pittsburg.

The case will likely be a long drawn out one as the trial is frequently delayed by squabbles between the various attorneys. Mr. Freeman early in the trial moved to quash the indictment but the court overruled the motion. The defense is having the testimony taken by Miss Pearl Harris, stenographer for the firm of Irwin, Wiley and Morgan. Court Stenographer W. E. McEnree is also taking the testimony.

Yesterday but one witness had been called. He was John C. McClain, of Lancaster, state bank examiner and later temporary receiver of the bank. He testified that when he came to the bank the books showed it to be solvent, but an examination of its resources showed that there was a shortage of $89,287.16, after wiping out the surplus. He was not able to proceed far with his testimony on account

TENTH STREET IN LIMELIGHT AGAIN WITH RACE RIOT

Syrians And Slavs Have It Out On Corner At McKean.

HURRY UP CALL SENT IN

Chief Albright And His Men Responded Quickly And Subdued Combatants.

Tenth street after having been a section of quietness for many months, last evening got into line with a small race riot, between the Syrians and Slavic people of that district. The affair is said to have originated from a member of one tribe striking the son of one of the members of the other and when taken to task for his deed refusing to apologize. As a result of the tangle five were arrested last night at 9:30 o'clock and during the course of today it is likely that five more will be confined in Burgess Hott's hotel to await a hearing tonigh with the others who had been previously arrested.

Four of the five who were arrested last night are John Mike, George Nehause and A. Assad, Syrians, and Earnest Riggins, Slavic. The beginning of the affair was last week, when a couple of the representatives of the two races became engaged in a war of words over the one striking an offspring of the other. The matter cooled down for a time however without a fight, but when the two came together all was soon turned to the affair of a few days previous, and the fight resulted. In a short time the streets near the corner of Tenth street and McKean avenue was lined with foreigners, who naturally took sides and there was a hot fight in that section for many minutes. The police were sent for and responded quickly.

They took the five named above in tow and the fight was discontinued.

night when Officer Channing arrested Nester Forsman and Emil Lahie for fighting. He got the men to the lockup at Daisytown when bystanders interferred and a general fight followed. The officer in the melee knocked down Lahie and Forsman escaped temporarily. Forsman was later taken but while the officer was unlocking the door of the lockup Forsman again escaped.

On Thursday morning Lahie pleaded guilty thereupon found Forman and the pair went to Charleroi and before Justice Wilson made information against Officer Channing, charging him with assault and battery in making the arrests Wednesday night. Detective Province, of Charleroi, went to California and arrested Officer Channing. The detective would not accept bail at California, requiring Channing to go to Charleroi. Officer Channing readily found a bondsman and before Jusice Wilson was released on bail, $500 being required on each charge.

Officer Channing before leaving Charleroi again arrested Nester Forsman and took him to Coal Center. He will be given a hearing tonight.

CARS FILLED WITH SLACK FILL SIDINGS

The side tracks up the M. and W. branch are about blocked with cars loaded with slack, for which the mine operators find no market. This is the annual recurrence of this trouble, and which causes the various companies a great deal of trouble as well as expense to care for. A coal train crew on Saturday, while picking up its complement of fifty loads at the mines between here and Hazel Kirk had to handle at least 200 cars of slack. A fortune awaits the man who will invent or discover some means of putting this slack coal into forms of convenient size, suitable for domestic use. The coal is of the same quality as the lump which finds such a ready sale, and if it were placed in some convenient solid form it would no doubt find a ready sale. This congestion of slack coal is the same from year to year at the rail mines, and the operators would gladly welcome some method whereby it could be disposed of.

COAL CENTER MAN CHANGES CHECKS OF WORKMEN

Coal Center, Aug. 24.—On a charge of changing coal checks and thus getting credit for the work of a fellow employe Fortunio Loko was arrested at mine No. 4, of the Vesta Coal company. It was alleged that he took check 606 belonging to George Opsitos from the latters wagon and put therein his own check, No. 283.

The accused miner was given a hearing before Justice Hornbake and held for court in the sum of $200 bail. He later settled by paying all the costs and renumerating Opsitos for the coal stolen.

It is said there has been considerable underhanded work of this kind going on and the company officials are determined to break it up.

ROSENBLOOM MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED

Wife And Daughter Of Murdered Man Place Blame On Son.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Bonnie Rosenbloom and her daughter Era confessed yesterday that the body found in the trunk at Rolle Mawr, near Camden, N. J., on August 16, was that of Samuel L. Rosenbloom, of Windber, Pa., husband of the older woman, and that he was killed by the son, Alexander Rosenbloom, at their home in Windber, Pa., on or about November 12, last. The woman said the cause of the murder was that Rosenbloom had beaten them.

Mrs. Rosenbloom, who is 57 years old, and her daughter, who is aged 16 years, were arrested this motning

Former Trusty May Serve Jail Sentence of Year

James W. D. Hendersen, colored, the jail "trusty" who ransacked the court house offices last Thursday night, breaking open desks, stealing stamps, etc., yesterday afternoon entered a plea of guilty before Judge Taylor and was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $25 and go to the work house for a period of one year.

NEW YORK MAN ADDED TO FORCE

The Mail has added F. W. Power, an expert solicitor of job work and advertising, of New York to the force and he is today calling on business men and merchants of this town. Any favors bestowed upon Mr. Power, will be much appreciated by the Mail.

Mystery Explained.

Centerville, Aug. 24.—The sudden disappearance of Lew C. Kritz in the west and which for some time has been the cause of considerable anxiety and alarm among his relatives and friends in this section has finally been explained through a message received from the man himself. All fears of foul play have been happily dispelled. He has been on a horse buying trip to a lonely mountainous section.

VESTA OFFICER TANGLED OVER ARRESTS

Makes Two Arrests, But After Their Release, Both Bring Suit.

California, Aug 25.—In his efforts to preserve the peace of this community John H. Channing, a special officer in the employ of the Vesta Coal company has got himself into trouble. He has waived a hearing before Justice of the Peace Wilson of Charleroi, and given bail, being charged with assault and battery in arresting one man and attempting to arrest another near Coal Center.

The trouble started last Wednesday

Men At Work At Hamilton Plant Installing Tanks

Men have been put to work at the plant of the Imperial Glass Co., formerly known as the old Hamilton works to fix it up for the company to begin operations there on September the eighteenth. Work has been begun on two new tanks to take the place of the furnaces that was used by the Hamiltons. One of these as has been previously stated will be completed and ready for use by the first of October while the other will not be finished until a later date.

The old employes of Hamiltons are requested to make application at the factory at once if they desire employment. The Imperial Glass Co., will manufacture all colors of bottles. The Plant when put into operation will mean employment for 200 men at the ofstart, this to be increased to three hundred when both tanks are in working order. It will be a factor of no small degree in the industrial world of Charleroi.

CANONSBURG FACES TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

Canonsburg faces a serious typhoid fever epidemic. There are over 30 cases and two patients have died. Wells are drying up fast and the water furnished by the North Strabane Water company of Canonsburg is at times so dirty that it cannot be used even for washing dishes.

How to Restore Prosperity.

"How to restore prosperity," was the question discussed at the Prosperity Convention held the other week under the auspices of the commercial travellers. The same answer might be given as in Horace Greeley's reply when he was asked how the United States could resume specie payments "The way to resume," he said, "is to resume."

The way to restore prosperity is to go to work harder than ever. If your business is declining, redouble your efforts to maintain it. If your confidence has been chilled by the panic, get a new grip upon yourself, recall the records of our progress and have faith in the country's future.

Have you been frightened by the revelations during the past few years of dishonesty in high places, of faithless administration by trustees of other people's property, of deceitful manipulation of the markets, and of cruel methods of competition?

Then call to mind how these things have been exposed, how new laws have been enacted and old laws enforced against malefactors, great as well as small, corporate as well as individual; and go ahead inspired by the thought that we have our standards and purified our methods.

There is only one royal road to prosperity, and that is hard, preserving work, intelligent saving and decent living. Congress cannot legislate prosperity into being. Prosperity is not an act of law. It is the product of a bountiful nature, working in combination with faithful labor, and a great organization of business, freed from all interference save only that needed to insure publicity and fair competition.

Water Service.

People were registering complaints on all sides yesterday on account of the inadequate water supply, and the Charleroi Water company was taken severely to task by many a citizen of Charleroi for not providing a system in this city which would be a source of pleasure, instead of something at which to continually growl. Are the citizens without just cause for complaint? Could better service be furnished if the company willed? The questions might be answered by others. It is not the undisputed right of each and every citizen of this place to be entitled, in accordance with the wording of the franchise, to the best of water service, and are they getting it?

One thing, which above all others is causing comment is the high rates of insurance furnished by the Underwriters Association. They have the people of Charleroi paying more insurance on their property than almost any town of its population in the State, and all because they do not consider that the water service in this place is sufficient to guarantee them in case of fire. The Underwriters do not take action on a case of the kind without first thoroughly investigating all the conditions, and the probable danger in time of fire.

Yesterday morning the entire hill district above Lincoln avenue were suffering from lack of water. Supposing there had been a conflagration in that section it might have communicated and destroyed millions of dollars worth of property with small chance of having the fire extinguished. Surely the citizens of Charleroi need redress.

Although the deaf mutes of New England, holding their twenty-sixth biennial convention, cannot talk, they can think, and act. On Saturday at the opening session they severely condemned the National Civil Service board in a set of revolutions, for discriminating against the mutes in the government employ. The mutes do not argue without some reason, either. Numbers of them are as well or better educated than some men with the full five senses who are now in the employ of the government. It is not necessary always for a man to talk to do his work properly.

of the interruptions and objections made by the attorneys for the defense.

The following is the jury sworn to try the case: Jonas Coterel, W. J. Greer, W. W. Frazee, John Wherry, Jr., John L. Davis, P. C. Gwyne, H. W. Donehoo, William McClain, M. R. Barr, J. S. Braden, James T. Corbin, John Westlake.

Ernest Hundertmark, convicted last week of selling liquor without license, on Sunday and of keeping a disorderly house, appeared before the court yesterday afternoon and was sentenced to an imprisonment of five months and 20 days to the workhouse, with fines of $575 and costs. H. L. Williams, of McIlvaine and Williams, appeared for the defendant and asked that mercy be shown, it being a first offense. Judge Taylor, in imposing sentence referred to the fact that the defendant had been an applicant for liquor license and for good and sufficient reason had been refused. The court said further that in spite of the court's decree the defendant had entered the liquor business under the guise of a social club, which, the court said, was the "shamiest" social club that had ever come to his notice. Further the court said that the defendant, after the commonwealth had introduced testimony which showed he was clearly guilty, had entered a plea of guilty and the court was therefore not disposed to inflict a severe penalty, but would give the minimum sentence. On the charge of selling liquor without license he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $500 and undergo imprisonment in the workhouse at Claremont for a period of three months. On the charge of selling on Sunday he was sentenced to pay the costs, fine of $50 and undergo imprisonment in the workhouse for 20 days, to be computed at the end of the first sentence. On the charge of keeping a disorderly house he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $25, and undergo imprisonment in the workhouse for 60 days, the sentence to be computed at the end of the other two sentences. The case came from Granville, near Coal Center.

Among the Exchanges

The Murder of Rosenbloom.

The suspected person has not yet been found, but a million eyes are alert for him. His personal characteristics, his weight and height, the color of his eyes and hair, the size of his ears, his method of holding a cigar, and, in fact, peculiarities which he himself does not know mark him, are sent abroad in descriptions. Every haunt that he ever frequented or to which he is likely to report is watched by volunteer and professional detectives. The civilized world is as one sensitive nerve extended to feel his approach, and from the day the trunk was found he began to lead a life of the hunted that will leave its mark so indelibly upon his face and his slinking gait that he will betray himself if the detectives fail. "Murder will out," and the exceptions merely "test" the rule. Publicity searches the ends of the earth in this modern day and the telegraph, the cable, the telephones and the universal diffusion of the "west bring the ends near to every point."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Winber Mystery.

Somerset county, once so pastoral and so peaceful, is turning up some startling and mysterious crimes since her coal development made her an industrial as well as a farming community, and perhaps the most gory and ghastly murder recorded in her criminal annals is that of the Windber merchant who disappeared last November and whose remains were found in far-off New Jersey in a trunk supposed to be his own.

In the meantime most of the family of the victim have themselves faded away leaving no traces behind. The whole case is dark with mystery and red with murder. It is worthy of a Sherlock Holmes.

It is the duty of the officers of the law to probe the matter to the bottom and to that end to locate the missing wife and son. In the work of piecing together the web of evidence their testimony would seem to be essential.

While it is true that nobody seems so be pressing the solution of the Windber mystery and the punishment of the murderers, and that the hunting down of criminals is costly to the taxpayers, yet it is a duty the administration of justice owes to society.

Murder would be common were it not for the hose.—Connellsville Courier.

The Black Hand.

The Black hand met with a surprise when it invaded Newport recently. A wealthy resident received from an alleged member of that nefarious band the usual "leave the money under the big oak at midnight or die!" demand. Instead of treating it as a joke or raising a clamour of hysterical fear, the common methods of meeting such threats, prompt, effective action was taken. The Newport police, the Pinkertons and the United States secret service were put to work. Three weeks of secret investigation led to an arrest. Whether the right man was caught or not, this way of going at it should serve ample notice on Black Hand gentry, professional, amateur or pretended, that the climate of Newport is not favorable to the propogation of human weeds of their species. This is setting other communites a good example. Whatever view may be taken of the real nature of the Black Hand, it is time that rapidly spreading pest was blotted out. In the first place, there are, parading the Black Hand genuinely desperate characters ready to make good their threats, as is evidenced by several recent murderous attacks. These men are emboldened by lack of effective prosecution. In the second place would-be but not quite thugs, "bluffers," cranks and jokers are turning out such a flood of letters stamped with the sombre warning of disaster that it has produced in certain quarters a state of mind bordering on hysteria. It has, to say the least, become a conspicuous public nuisance. Moreover, toleration for the jokers, on the part of the more intelligent, has become a menace. For, like the oft-repeated false cry of "Wolf!" it encourages the real desperadoes to strike while the authorities slumber. —New York Tribune.

The Altoona Tribune in viewing the condition of the times at this period thinks there has been no change since sometime past. It says:

"About all that can be truthfully said about the times is that they are getting no worse. Various pessimistic rumors that were in the air were not verified. So much has been gained. But there has not been the stir and rustle that was anticipated. We are all looking for the brisk arrival of the fall trade. It has not yet exactly appeared. Perhaps it is just around the corner. Let us hope so. Certainly the tremendous crops vouchsafed the farmers this year ought to help mightily to make things better than they have been for almost a year."

DONORA GIRL TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Mary Manuko, of Twelfth street Donora attempted to take her life by swallowing Paris-green Saturday afternoon but the attempt was unsuccessful. Miss Manuko has for sometime been employed as domestic at the home of Jacob Heater, of Thompson avenue, but recently some trouble was experienced with the girl and she was told that she must go. The girl said she could not for her parents would abuse her.

It seems that her mohter had threatened putting her in a reform school but the girl told a friend of hers that she would kill herself rather than go there.

At about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon the girl was seen vomiting something green and a gentleman was called. He asked her what was the matter and she acknowleged that she had swallowed a teaspoon full of Paris-green. He immediately sent for the Chief of Police and Dr. Faught. The doctor soon arrive and gave her an emetic which put her out of danger.

STAR THEATRE OPENS WITH VAUDEVILLE

The Star theatre opened last night after a few months shutdown, with a good bill of vaudeville and moving pictures. Crowds witnessed each show, the theatre being taxed to the utmost capacity. The Ozaks gave a fine exhibition of comedy and burlesque juggling, and Fairy Plum made a hit in her singing and dancing act. Harry Wallace, a baritone singer took well.

CORNER STONE LAYING SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Capt. Klein To Reopen Park

Capt. Klein, manager of the John L. Klein company, who recently purchased Coney Island park at receivers' sale, is working energetically to get affairs in shape to reopen the island park. It is possible that some attractions will be booked and the park kept open until the close of this season. Present plans include a large summer hotel on the grounds, which it is expected to have ready to receive guests at the opening of the season next year. Capt. Klein is now negotiating for the purchase of two additional excursion boats and wharfboat, which will give the company a fleet of three packets to carry the people between this city and the park.

Committed But One.

Nicholas Peese, who is serving his sixth consecutive term as justice of the peace of East Finley township, enjoys the unique distinction of having committed but one person to jail. This remarkable record of managing to steer clear of issuing commitments extends from May 1, 1882, to Thursday, the 20th inst., when, perforce, he was obliged to commit one Oliver Craig to the county bastile, the latter having been found guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct at a picnic given that day by the members of the Fairmont United Brethren church.

Pension Granted.

Stetler Gets Cold Feet

Wilkes-Barre, August 24.—Following the threat of blacklisting all players who remain with the outlaw team of the Atlantic league, this city and preventing them ever playing with a protected league, made recently by Secretary Farrell of the National commission, Manger Percy Stetler, has resigned from the club. The club's business affairs will be looked after by S. C. Hartman, one of the owners. While on the field it will be directed by Catcher Donovan until Kohley Miller gets back in the game. Pitcher A. J. McCarty and Left Fielder Thomas Fogarty also takes Farrell's threat to heart and have resigned.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

Glaciers.

It has been demonstrated that the glacier does not move in one block, but flows, accommodating itself to the channel in which it moves. Professor Tyndall planted a row of sticks in a straight line across a glacier, and after a few days the line had become a crescent, with the concavity upward, showing that the middle of the glacier moved faster than the sides, just as in a river the stream is stronger in the center.

A FRIGHT IN MIDAIR

Going Up in a Balloon and Coming Down in a Parachute.

THE AGONY OF A FIRST TRIP

Experience and Sensations of an Acrobat Who Took the Place of a Professional Aeronaut in an Emergency. The Dash Through Space.

I once went up in a balloon and came down in a parachute. Something went wrong, and all the money in the world doubled would not induce me to make the experiment again.

One grows strangely accustomed to dangers as an acrobat, and when it was suggested that I should earn $25 in as many minutes by taking the place of a parachutist who had fallen ill at the last minute I jumped at the chance.

It was at a large country fair. The laughing crowd had probably never seen a balloon go up. As the great silk bag gradually swelled a silence fell upon the onlookers.

The sick parachutist's manager patted me on the back and said it was money easily earned. I agreed—then.

"Keep cool," he said, "and, whatever you do, don't look down except to judge your distance from the earth. You see that tower? It is about a thousand yards away. When you are that distance up pull the check string and shut your eyes."

A dull murmur rose as the ropes were cast off and I felt my feet leave the ground. The ascensional movement was gentle, and a great cheer came up to me until the band drowned it.

I hardly heard the cheering or the band. The involuntary murmur still rang in my ears. Perhaps my nerves were upset, possibly it was intuition, but from the moment I was drawn up from the ground I felt the conviction that grim trouble lay ahead.

Ignoring the oft repeated instructions, I looked down. How slowly the balloon went up! Could it be possible that I had not gone more than a hundred yards? The giant overhead became a living thing, intent on torturing the puny mortal who had trusted his life to it. I knew I dared not leap before I was high enough, for the parachute takes 100 feet sometimes to open.

I shut my eyes and tried to count to kill time, but the figures became jumbled, and I looked down again. A swallow skimmed past underneath. Far below there was a sea of upturned faces, and the music floated up distinctly. The balloon seemed to have stopped rising, and for an eternity I tried to gauge the height.

Again the band stopped, and I was in a silent world. The crowd of breathless specks far beneath was getting full value for its money. The only noise I heard was the beating of the blood through my head. I was afraid. It was the first real fear I had ever felt in my work.

When the supreme moment came I pulled the string without realizing what I was doing.

What years I lived in those next few seconds. An appalling nausea and a wild desire to live came with the first terrible rush, and my heart stood still as I looked eagerly aloft. The ropes of the parachute had twisted, and I was falling to instant death.

Grasping the ropes in a clutch of steel, I shook them frantically. Half the huge parachute bellied out with a noise like a pistol shot, and the speed of the fall was lessened with a jar.

Again I shook the death trap. The ropes were sliding at a snail's pace, and bit by bit the parachute was opening. Still I fell far too fast. I could not breathe, and my hands seemed to be refusing to hold on.

Bang! The last fold had opened out, and I was saved. Dizzy and numb with fear, I held on tightly, wondering whether I should faint before I touched the ground. That, and that only, was my thought as I sailed through the space. I had almost lost consciousness when my feet touched the ground gently. And then I collapsed.—Buffalo Times.

A Drawback.

"My!" exclaimed little Billy as he gazed at the lithograph. "I'd like to be a giraffe. Just think how easily you could 'rubber' over the baseball fence."

"That's all right," replied Tommy, "but there is another time when you wouldn't want to have a neck like a giraffe."

"When is that?"

"Why, in the mornings when your ma begins to scrub your neck with soap and water."—Chicago News.

Objectionable.

"I don't see why Goodley should be so unpopular with you all. He never speaks ill of any one."

"No, but he's one of those very smug fellows who can say 'Oh, yes, Jones seemed very happy when I saw him last,' and say it in such a way as to give the impression that Jones was horribly drunk."—Philadelphia Press.

A Spoiled Compliment.

Little Elmer—Mamma says you are a duck of a doctor. Pompous M. D. (greatly pleased)—Indeed! How did she come to say that? Little Elmer—Oh, she didn't say it just that way, but I heard her tell papa you were a quack.—Chicago News.

Ruskin's injunction to his servants: "Call me from my study whenever there is a beautiful sunset or any unusual appearance in the sky or landscape."

MAN SHOULD NOT DIE

There Is No Physiological Reason For Death.

THE BODY IS SELF RENEWING

Perfect Diet and Mode of Living Would Insure Exact Balance Between Bodily Waste and Renewal and Would Mean Physical Immortality.

"The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death," said the Scriptures, yet if some man attempted seriously to reassert this ancient truth today we would look upon him as a mad prophet indeed. Yet the time will come when men will be able to believe this promise of the Bible, although they may never see it literally fulfilled.

Death some day will be acknowledged to be as unnatural in the economy of the creative plant as are sin and suffering. But whether or not in some millennium period mortal man will be able to forego the gross process of physical dissolution in becoming a spiritual body is a purely metaphysical question that does not enter here. What does interest us is the question, occupying the greatest scientific minds today, whether the body as such cannot be retained in perfect condition indefinitely.

William A. Hammond, one of the great authorities, answers it by saying, "There is no physiological reason why man should die."

Thomas J. Allen, M. A., LL. D., writing in a similar strain, says: "The human body is not like a machine which must wear out by constant disintegration, for it is self renewing. It is a simple, scientific fact that we get an entirely new body every few years, estimated at from three to seven. Every day is a birthday, for the process of waste and renewal never ceases. Perfect balance between elimination and renewal would avoid permanent waste."

There is no doubt that when we become more enlightened and understand perfectly the laws that govern and determine our physical lives and when we conform to these religiously life will be immeasurably prolonged.

The decay of the body as evidenced in old age is unnatural. The aesthetic within us recoils in merely contemplating its approach. We feel that there must be something self penetrative in the change when the strong color in a healthy man and the rich beauty in a pure woman take their departure, when the bloom on the cheeks fade, when the brilliant light within the eyes grows dim and the full, red lips become pale and fallen.

Medical science has pointed out the physiological cause of these conditions. Probably the time will come when it will be able to point out the manner of avoiding them.

We know that the body grows old because of the existence of an imperfect balance between the waste which the body accumulates and the amount it is able to throw off. During youth the balance is perfect, because the body has more than its normal vitality and strength to throw off the waste matter, but as we grow older this perfect balance becomes destroyed from one cause or another.

The strength that should go to eliminating impurities from the body is not husbanded, but rather squandered in different ways. Then, too, we eat and drink those things that cause excessive waste. An impure diet composed of foods containing uric acid, such as meat, or of drinks containing poisons, such as tea and coffee, taxes the eliminative powers, and when the time comes when these give way a state of imperfect elimination has set in, and the wastes in part are deposited in the system, settling in the arteries and joints of the body and accumulating until they become obstructive elements.

The blood stream circulates imperfectly, and when once this condition exists bad functioning of every organ of the body results, and old age and death gradually ensue.

Mind, too, has a great deal to do in hastening or retarding the unpleasant signs of physical decay. Mental science has satisfactorily demonstrated that mean, narrow, selfish and unpleasant thoughts act destructively on the tissues of the body, while thoughts of a wholesome and positive character act constructively.

And when the curtains of "the windows of the soul" are drawn, when the temple's door is closed and a final silence is within, when the spirit passes the threshold to take up a newer and finer edifice of its own creation, science assures us that the body lives on. Here at least physical immortality is an assured fact.

Theology has irreligiously taught us that the body returns to inanimate dust. The religious answer of science is that it returns to God. The latest word in the field of biology is that all nature, including the all mother soil, is animated and hallowed with the divine principle of life.

More than this, matter is indestructible and eternal. There is not an atom that can be lost in all the universe. For this reason our bodies do not really die. They are in the care of the angels of the elements.

The peculiar cellular arrangement that formed them into a beautiful body may be caused to disintegrate through the action of the oxygen upon it, time may change the position of the atoms composing it, but the latter still contain within themselves the sacred and eternal principle of life as much as does the soul, and they exist only to enter into new and perhaps more beautiful combinations of life.—Health.

at their home, No. 1526 East Baltimore street. Mrs. Rosenbloom and her daughter had lived in a flat at the East Baltimore street house since July 14, last, having come to this city from Windber, the scene of the murder, because one of the sons of the family, Harry Rosenbloom, was employed here.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 25.—District Attorney John Lewis, of Somerset county, has asked the county commissioner of that county to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of Alexander Rosenbloom, who is now alleged to be connected with the death of his father at Windber, Pa.

Joseph and Louis Adler, brothers, living at 120 Monroe street New York City have been arrested by the New York police.

Mr. Louis Rosenbloom of Charleroi is still in the East and the family here say they have not heard a word from him. It is hardly likely that he will be held as knowing anything of the murder.

PITTSBURG EXPOSITION OPENS SEPTEMBER 2

Theodore Thomas Orchestra and Many Fine Exhibits

Wednesday evening, Sept. 2, will mark the opening of the twentieth season of the Pittsburg Exposition, the Theodore Thomas orchestra of Chicago, with Frederick Stock as conductor, having been accorded the honor of launching the "best season ever" at the junction of the three rivers. The Thomas orchestra opened the year's events last season at the exposition and so popular was it that there was an immediate clamor that it be reengaged for this season.

While music will, of course, be one of the greatest features of the exposition this year, as in years gone by, never before have there been so many interesting displays installed as at present. All of the exhibition space in Machinery hall and the main building has been allotted to exhibitors who promise and who are putting in entirely new attractions.

The musical attractions for the season are as follows, a galaxy of the most notable organizations in the country:

Theodore Thomas orchestra, Sept. 2 to Sept. 8; John Philip Sousa, Sept. 9 to 19, inclusive; Russian symphony orchestra, Sept. 21 to 26, inclusive; Arthur Pryor and his band, Sept. 28 to Oct. 3, inclusive; Bostonia women's orchestra, Oct. 5 to 10, inclusive; Creatore's band, Oct. 12 to 17; Damrosch and the New York symphony orchestra, Oct 19 to 24.

In Machinery hall this season there will be something new on every hand. The Carnegie Steel company is now installing a display to contain an exact model of "Fighting Bob" Evans's flagship Connecticut, the display to occupy a space of more than 12,000 square feet it will be an exact model, the battleship having been erected almost entirely of Pittsburg products, the armor plate having been supplied by the Carnegie Steel company. In the Hippodrome there will be a realistic military spectacle, picturing the Spanish war. This will be one of the greatest works of realism ever presented at the exposition. Then there will be startling electrical innovations in Machinery hall; a complete plant installed by the Pittsburg Steel company showing the manufacture of wire fence.

Among the new attractions in the main building will be an electrical scenic cyclorama, "A Day in Japan." The Pennsylvania Railroad company will have a display tending to show the evolution of railroading during the past century. It will consist of three models, the old Conestoga wagon and mules; the canal boat and mules and the first engine ever to travel over the Pennsy, the "Lancaster." A gallery of 400 notables, men who have assisted in making Greater Pittsburg, will adorn a prominent space along the main aisle of the main building.

The theatorium, merry-go-round, roller coaster, Ferris wheel, pony track and all of the other amusements for the young and old are being put in readiness for the twentieth season.

The negro question will not down. A bloody race war in the city of Abraham Lincoln accentuates the ominous fact that the issue is no longer sectional. Now, from Tennessee comes a report of a conflict there where the question is not complicated by any individual's crime, as an incentive to strife. The determination of a coal mining company to work nergo miners along with white has precipitated a situation resembling civil war.

All this red tumult, whatever its primary local significance, speaks to the nation the big truth that there is, inextricably bound up with the existence of the black man in America, a tremendous social and political problem. It is a grave question, steadily growing graver. Already it is confronting the serious-minded citizenship of all sections of the country. Countless remedies are being propounded, some of them unworthy of consideration, and some holding promise of helpfulness. But no solution yet proposed is in itself entirely sufficient.

Just now it is of chief importance that the whole people be made aware of the reality and gravity of this present problem. Only thus can they be prepared to face it soberly, intelligently and with self-restrain; and, moreover, only thus, by an appeal to their best manhood, can they be safe guarded against the plea of passion the dogmas of the demagogue and the madness of the mob.

It is estimated that there are 84,100 men idle at present in the building trade of New York City. Of the 100,000 skilled mechanics in that city 40,000 are still idle. Labor leaders are surprised that conditions have not improved more rapidly.

Not.

"Shall we marry, darling, or shall we knot?" was the short and witty line an ardent lover dispatched to the idol of his heart.

But, where the strangeness of the matter comes in, the girl replied: "I shall not. You may do as you please."

ORDINANCE GOVERNING LICENSE IS DISCUSSED

Council Does Nothing On Matter Except To Arrange For Special Meeting.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

Washers Sent By The Eureka Hose Company Are Unsatisfactory.

Council in their regular adjourned session last night took up the license ordinance which has caused considerable trouble and worry, but no action of importance concerning it was taken except to appoint Thursday evening of this week, a time for a meeting for the special purpose of taking up the ordinance and passing it. The councilmen will go over the ordinance part by part and strike out what clauses they think unnecessary and put others in. It has already passed first reading. What perhaps will cause some contention will be the hawkers or peddlars' license, for selling various products from a wagon on the street. Councilman Frye last evening gave a number of good suggestions on the license question, which he had gleaned from the statutes of Pittsburg and other places.

Garbage collector and hauler Thomas Younger was present and voiced a complaint about having nothing to do. He said that as a rule his expenses were more than the income, and suggested that unless council provide a way out of his difficulties, he would ask for release. The matter, on motion was placed in the hands of the street committee to appear back to council.

Chairman Frye of the street committee made a report of the work that had been accomplished which had been placed in the hands of that body. He made a report of the alley back of the brick row and recommended that it be opened up by the street commissioner, in various places. The report was accepted. Mr. Frye also made a statement as to the matter of sewering property on the hill near the Charleroi Coal company's property, saying that little could be done except at considerable expense, and thought it not advisable to begin on such work, as the property which would be benefitted was not worth as much as the expense would be. The reports of the street committee as a whole was accepted.

Eugene Moreen was present asking for a sewer for his property. The matter was placed in the hands of the street committee with power to act.

MANY CARS SIDE-TRACKED FOR REPAIRS

The middle siding of the Monongahela Division on the P. R. R. at Riverview is crowded at the present time with a large number of coke cars, and their idleness at this time has caused some inquiry. It is learned, however, from reliable authority, that these cars are only awaiting an opportunity to be taken to the shops for repairs, which in many instances will be only of a minor character. Recently the railroad company issued an order for all cars requiring repairs amounting to $1.00 to be sent to the shops, and this order has caused quite a lot of them to be sidetracked. In the meantime the force of men at the shops is being increased, in order to push the repairs with all speed possible.

Since August 1, 10,000 additional cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad have been put into service, and the number of idle cars, 78,400, is now the smallest since the period of business depression set in.

WORK ON BOROUGH BUILDING ANNEX WELL UNDER WAY

The work on the annex of the borough building is progressing nicely under the supervision of Contractor W. A. Hazlett. The stone work on the building has been finished and the brick layers are now doing their part.

The laying of brick on the first story was begun on Friday and now on all sides has reached over one half the distance between the first and second floors. This work will probably be completed in eight or ten days after which the roof will be set, and work begun on the interior, the laying of floors, fixing stalls for horses partitioning, etc.

WILSON AND BERT HUMPHRIES FIGHT IT OUT YESTERDAY

Clarksburg Wins In The Fourth By Only Score Of Game.

GOT IT WITH TWO DOWN

Mr. Wilson from Clarksburg did not demonstrate that he was any better pitcher than Bert Humphries yesterday afternoon but he got away with the contest just the same. Wilson allowed the Cherubs five hits, Bert Humphries issuing the same number to the Drummers. Wilson didn't walk a man, neither did Bert Humphries. In the strike-out line Wilson showed up a little better than Bert as he fanned five, while two took the bench after making healthy swings at Bert's fast ones. The Drummers never had a chance to cross the gum in the first three rounds and not until after two had gone to the bench in the fourth did they mark. McKenna and Clark opened up the fourth round and were both retired at first. Conoway had a safe one on his first visit to the plate and duplicated the trick on his second trip. Then McCombs who cavors around second base, smashed one for three bases which sent Conaway over. But one more hit was secured by the Drummers in the remaining rounds and that was secured by Dawson in the sixth inning. He was sacrificed to second by McKenna, where he perched while Clark and Conaway were retired.

Charleroi tried hard to score but could not get a man past second and in fact only two of them reached that station. In the first inning with two down Dunn single and purloined the second bag. Dailey retired the side by striking out. The next man to reach the middle mile stone was Cosgrove in the fourth. Conaway dropped the throw on his drive and Dunn sent him to second with a neat sacrifice. Had Dailey and O'Hara been able to connect safely the game would have gone into extra rounds, but Mr. Wilson couldn't see things that way, sending Dailey to the bench on a long fly to right while O'Hara was easy

Brownsville Man Charged With Conspiracy To Defraud.

ATTORNEYS' WORDY WAR

[illegible] important case of the present term is now on trial before Judge Taylor at Washington. The defendant is William L. Lenhart and the prosecutor is George B. Frantz. The case is one which grows out of the alleged embezzlement of the funds of the Peoples Bank of California by the cashier, O. F. Piper. Mr. Lenhart was involved in the wrecking of the bank and his name is connected with that of Piper in the criminal proceedings that have grown out of the affair.

The charge named in the indictment is embezzlement and receiving stolen goods. A true bill was found by the grand jury in February, but the case against Lenhart has been continued from term to term until the present. Lenhart has been under $10,000 bail since his arrest.

A rather formidable array of attorneys has been retained in the case. The commonwealth is represented by District Attorney C. L. V. Acheson and the private prosecutor by McIlvaine, Vance and Gibson and Underwood and Meloy. Lenhart is represented by Irwin, Wiley and Morgan, of the local bar, and John M. Freeman, of the firm of Watson and Freeman, Pittsburg.

The case will likely be a long drawn out one as the trial is frequently delayed by squabbles between the various attorneys. Mr. Freeman early in the trial moved to quash the indictment but the court overruled the motion. The defense is having the testimony taken by Miss Pearl Harris, stenographer for the firm of Irwin, Wiley and Morgan. Court Stenographer W. E. McEnree is also taking the testimony.

Yesterday but one witness had been called. He was John C. McClain, of Lancaster, state bank examiner and later temporary receiver of the bank. He testified that when he came to the bank the books showed it to be solvent, but an examination of its resources showed that there was a shortage of $89,287.16, after wiping out the surplus. He was not able to proceed far with his testimony on account

Syrians And Slavs Have It Out On Corner At McKean.

HURRY UP CALL SENT IN

Chief Albright And His Men Responded Quickly And Subdued Combatants.

Tenth street after having been a section of quietness for many months, last evening got into line with a small race riot, between the Syrians and Slavic people of that district. The affair is said to have originated from a member of one tribe striking the son of one of the members of the other and when taken to task for his deed refusing to apologize. As a result of the tangle five were arrested last night at 9:30 o'clock and during the course of today it is likely that five more will be confined in Burgess Hott's hotel to await a hearing tonigh with the others who had been previously arrested.

Four of the five who were arrested last night are John Mike, George Nehause and A. Assad, Syrians, and Earnest Riggins, Slavic. The beginning of the affair was last week, when a couple of the representatives of the two races became engaged in a war of words over the one striking an offspring of the other. The matter cooled down for a time however without a fight, but when the two came together all was soon turned to the affair of a few days previous, and the fight resulted. In a short time the streets near the corner of Tenth street and McKean avenue was lined with foreigners, who naturally took sides and there was a hot fight in that section for many minutes. The police were sent for and responded quickly.

They took the five named above in tow and the fight was discontinued.

night when Officer Channing arrested Nester Forsman and Emil Lahie for fighting. He got the men to the lockup at Daisytown when bystanders interferred and a general fight followed. The officer in the melee knocked down Lahie and Forsman escaped temporarily. Forsman was later taken but while the officer was unlocking the door of the lockup Forsman again escaped.

On Thursday morning Labie pleaded guilty thereupon found Forman and the pair went to Charleroi and before Justice Wilson made information against Officer Channing, charging him with assault and battery in making the arrests Wednesday night. Detective Province, of Charleroi, went to California and arrested Officer Channing. The detective would not accept bail at California, requiring Channing to go to Charleroi. Officer Channing readily found a bondsman and before Jusice Wilson was released on bail, $500 being required on each charge.

Officer Channing before leaving Charleroi again arrested Nester Forsman and took him to Coal Center. He will be given a hearing tonight.

CARS FILLED WITH SLACK FILL SIDINGS

The side tracks up the M. and W. branch are about blocked with cars loaded with slack, for which the mine operators find no market. This is the annual recurrence of this trouble, and which causes the various companies a great deal of trouble as well as expense to care for. A coal train crew on Saturday, while picking up its complement of fifty loads at the mines between here and Hazel Kirk had to handle at least 200 cars of slack. A fortune awaits the man who will invent or discover some means of putting this slack coal into forms of convenient size, suitable for domestic use. The coal is of the same quality as the lump which finds such a ready sale, and if it were placed in some convenient solid form it would no doubt find a ready sale. This congestion of slack coal is the same from year to year at the rail mines, and the operators would gladly welcome some method whereby it could be disposed of.

COAL CENTER MAN CHANGES CHECKS OF WORKMEN

Coal Center, Aug. 24.—On a charge of changing coal checks and thus getting credit for the work of a fellow employe Fortunio Loko was arrested at mine No. 4, of the Vesta Coal company. It was alleged that he took check 606 belonging to George Opsitos from the latters wagon and put therein his own check, No. 233.

The accused miner was given a hearing before Justice Hornbake and held for court in the sum of $200 bail. He later settled by paying all the costs and renumerating Opsitos for the coal stolen.

It is said there has been considerable underhanded work of this kind going on and the company officials are determined to break it up.

ROSENBLOOM MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED

Wife And Daughter Of Murdered Man Place Blame On Son.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Bonnie Rosenbloom and her daughter Ora confessed yesterdey that the body found in the trunk at Rolle Mawr, near Camden, N. J., on August 16, was that of Samuel L. Rosenbloom, of Windber, Pa., husband of the older woman, and that he was killed by the son, Alexander Rosenbloom, at their home in Windber, Pa., on or about November 12, last. The woman said the cause of the murder was that Rosenbloom had beaten them.

Mrs. Rosenbloom, who is 57 years old, and her daughter, who is aged 16 years, were arrested this morning

Former Trusty May Serve Jail Sentence of Year

James W. D. Henderson, colored, the jail "trusty" who ransacked the court house offices last Thursday night, breaking open desks, stealing stamps, etc., yesterday afternoon entered a plea of guilty before Judge Taylor and was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $25 and go to the work house for a period of one year.

NEW YORK MAN ADDED TO FORCE

The Mail has added F. W. Power, an expert solicitor of job work and advertising, of New York to the force and he is today calling on business men and merchants of this town. Any favors bestowed upon Mr. Power, will be much appreciated by the Mail.

Mystery Explained.

Centerville, Aug. 24.—The sudden disappearance of Lew C. Kritz in the west and which for some time has been the cause of considerable anxiety and alarm among his relatives and friends in this section has finally been explained through a message received from the man himself. All fears of foul play have been happily dispelled. He has been on a horse buying trip to a lonely mountainous section.

VESTA OFFICER TANGLED OVER ARRESTS

Makes Two Arrests, But After Their Release, Both Bring Suit.

California, Aug 25.—In his efforts to preserve the peace of this community John H. Channing, a special officer in the employ of the Vesta Coal company has got himself into trouble. He has waived a hearing before Justice of the Peace Wilson of Charleroi, and given bail, being charged with assault and battery in arresting one man and attempting to arrest another near Coal Center.

The trouble started last Wednesday

Men At Work At Hamilton Plant Installing Tanks

Men have been put to work at the plant of the Imperial Glass Co., formerly known as the old Hamilton works to fix it up for the company to begin operations there on September the eighteenth. Work has been begun on two new tanks to take the place of the furnaces that was used by the Hamiltons. One of these as has been previously stated will be completed and ready for use by the first of October while the other will not be finished until a later date.

The old employes of Hamiltons are requested to make application at the factory at once if they desire employment. The Imperial Glass Co., will manufacture all colors of bottles. The Plant when put into operation will mean employment for 200 men at the ofstart, this to be increased to three hundred when both tanks are in working order. It will be a factor of no small degree in the industrial world of Charleroi.

How to Restore Prosperity.

"How to restore prosperity," was the question discussed at the Prosperity Convention held the other week under the auspices of the commercial travellers. The same answer might be given as in Horace Greeley's reply when he was asked how the United States could resume specie payments. "The way to resume," he said, "is to resume."

The way to restore prosperity is to go to work harder than ever. If your business is declining, redouble your efforts to maintain it. If your confidence has been chilled by the panic, get a new grip upon yourself, recall the records of our progress and have faith in the country's future.

Have you been frightened by the revelations during the past few years of dishonesty in high places, of faithless administration by trustees of other people's property, of deceitful manipulation of the markets, and of cruel methods of competition?

Then call to mind how these things have been exposed, how new laws have been enacted and old laws enforced against malefactors, great as well as small, corporate as well as individual; and go ahead inspired by the thought that we have our standards and purified our methods.

There is only one royal road to prosperity, and that is hard, preserving work, intelligent saving and decent living. Congress cannot legislate prosperity into being. Prosperity is not an act of law. It is the product of a bountiful nature, working in combination with faithful labor, and a great organization of business, freed from all interference save only that needed to insure publicity and fair competition.

Water Service.

People were registering complaints on all sides yesterday on account of the inaequate water supply, and the Charleroi Water company was taken severely to task by many a citizen of Charleroi for not providing a system in this city which would be a source of pleasure, instead of something at which to contiqually growl. Are the citizens without just cause for complaint? Could better service be furnished if the company willed? The questions might be answered by others. It is not the undisputed right of each and every citizen of this place to be entitled, in accordance with the wording of the franchise, to the best of water service, and are they getting it?

One thing, which above all others is causing comment is the high rates of insurance furnished by the Underwriters Association. They have the people of Charleroi paying more insurance on their property than almost any town of its population in the State, and all because they do not consider that the water service in this place is sufficient to guarantee them in case of fire. The Underwriters do not take action on a case of the kind without first thoroughly investigating all the conditions, and the probable danger in time of fire.

Yesterday morning the entire hill district above Lincoln avenue were passing there had been a conflagration in that section it might have communicated and destroyed millions of dollars worth of property with small chance of having the fire extinguished. Surely the citizens of Charleroi need ....

Although the deaf mutes of New England, holding their twenty-sixth biennial convention, cannot talk, they can think, and act. On Saturday at the opening session they severely condemned the National Civil Service board in a set of revolutions, for discriminating against the mutes in the government employ. The mutes do not argue without some reason, either. Numbers of them are as well or better educated than some men with the full five senses who are now in the employ of the government. It is not necessary always for a man to talk to do his work properly.

of the interruptions and objections made by the attorneys for the defense.

The following is the jury sworn to try the case: Jonas Coterel, W. J. Greer, W. W. Frazee, John Wherry, Jr., John L. Davis, P. C. Gwynn, H. W. Donehoo, William McClain, M. R. Barr, J. S. Braden, James T. Cullin, John Westlake.

Ernest Hardertmark, convicted last week of selling liquor without license, on Sunday and of keeping a disorderly house, appeared before the court yesterday afternoon and was sentenced to an imprisonment of five months and 20 days to the workhouse, with fines of $575 and costs. H. L. Williams, of McIlvaine and Williams, appeared for the defendant and asked that mercy be shown, it being a first offense. Judge Taylor, in imposing sentence referred to the fact that the defendant had been an applicant for liquor license and for good and sufficient reason had been refused. The court said further that in spite of the court's decree the defendant had entered the liquor business under the guise of a social club, which, the court said, was the "shammest' social club that had ever come to his notice. Further the court said that the defendant, after the commonwealth had introduced testimony which showed he was clearly guilty, had entered a plea of guilty and the court was therefore not disposed to inflict a severe penalty, but would give the minimum sentence. On the charge of selling liquor without license he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $500 and undergo imprisonment in the workhouse at Claremont for a period of three months. On the charge of selling on Sunday he was sentenced to pay the costs, fine of $50 and undergo imprisonment in the workhouse for 20 days, to be computed at the end of the first sentence. On the charge of keeping a disorderly house he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $25, and undergo imprisonment in the workhouse for 60 days, the sentence to be computed at the end of the other two sentences. The case came from Granville, near Coal Center.

Among the Exchanges

The Murder of Rosenbloom.

The suspected person has not yet been found, but a million eyes are alert for him. His personal characteristics, his weight and height, the color of his eyes and hair, the size of his ears, his method of holding a cigar, and, in fact, peculiarities which he himself does not know mark him, are sent abroad in descriptions. Every haunt that he ever frequented or to which he is likely to report is watched by volunteer and professional detectives. The civilized world is as one sensitive nerve extended to feel his approach, and from the day the trunk was found he began to lead a life of the hunted that will leave its mark so indelibly upon his face and his slinking gait that he will betray himself if the detectives fail. "Murder will out," and the exceptions merely "test" the rule. Publicity searches the ends of the earth in this modern day and the telegraph, the cable, the telephones and the universal diffusion of the "west bring the ends near to every point."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Windber Mystery.

Somerset county, once so pastoral and so peaceful, is turning up some startling and mysterious crimes since her coal development made her an industrial as well as a farming community, and perhaps the most gory and ghastly murder recorded in her criminal annals is that of the Windber merchant who disappeared last November and whose remains were found in far-off New Jersey in a trunk supposed to be his own.

In the meantime most of the family of the victim have themselves faded away leaving no traces behind. The whole case is dark with mystery and red with murder. It is worthy of a Sherlock Holmes.

It is the duty of the officers of the law to probe the matter to the bottom and to that end to locate the missing wife and son. In the work of piecing together the web of evidence their testimony would seem to be essential.

While it is true that nobody seems to be pressing the solution of the Windber mystery and the punishment of the murderers, and that the hunting down of criminals is costly to the taxpayers, yet it is a duty the administration of justice owes to society.

Murder would be common were it not for the rope.—Connellsville Courier.

The Black Hand.

The Black hand met with a surprise when it invaded Newport recently. A wealthy resident received from an alleged member of that dubious band the usual "leave the money under the big oak at midnight or die!" demand. Instead of treating it as a joke or raising a clamour of hysterical fear, the common methods of meeting such threats, prompt, effective action was taken. The Newport police, the Pinkertons and the United States secret service were put to work. Three weeks of secret investigation led to an arrest. Whether the right man was caught or not, this way of going at it should serve ample notice on Black Hand gentry, professional, amateur or pretended, that the climate of Newport is not favorable to the propogation of human weeds of their species. This is setting other communities a good example. Whatever view may be taken of the real nature of the Black Hand, it is time that rapidly spreading pest was blotted out. In the first place, there are, parading the Black Hand genuinely desperate characters ready to make good their threats, as is evidenced by several recent murderous attacks. These men are emboldened by lack of effective prosecution. In the second place would-be but not quite thugs, "bluffers," cranks and jokers are turning out such a flood of letters stamped with the sombre warning of disaster that it has produced in certain quarters a state of mind bordering on hysteria. It has, to say the least, become a conspicuous public nuisance. Moreover, toleration for the jokers, on the part of the more intelligent, has become a menace. For, like the oft-repeated false cry of "Wolf!" it encourages the real desperadoes to strike while the authorities slumber. —New York Tribune.

The Altoona Tribune in viewing the condition of the times at this period thinks there has been no change since sometime past. It says:

"About all that can be truthfully said about the times is that they are getting no worse. Various pessimistic rumors that were in the air were not verified. So much has been gained. But there has not been the stir and rustle that was anticipated. We are all looking for the brisk arrival of the fall trade. It has not yet exactly appeared. Perhaps it is just around the corner. Let us hope so. Certainly the tremendous crops vouchsafed the farmers this year ought to help mightily to make things better than they have been for almost a year."

Miss Manuko has for sometime been employed as domestic at the home of Jacob Heater, of Thompson avenue, but recently some trouble was experienced with the girl and she was told that she must go. The girl said she could not for her parents would abuse her.

It seems that her mother had threatened putting her in a reform school but the girl told a friend of hers that she would kill herself rather than go there.

At about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon the girl was seen vomiting something green and a gentleman was called. He asked her what was the matter and she acknowleged that she had swallowed a teaspoon full of Paris-green. He immediately sent for the Chief of Police and Dr. Taught. The doctor soon arrive and gave her an emetic which put her out of danger.

STAR THEATRE OPENS WITH VAUDEVILLE

The Star theatre opened last night after a few months shutdown, with a good bill of vaudeville and moving pictures. Crowds witnessed each show, the theatre being taxed to the utmost capacity. The Ozaks gave a fine exhibition of comedy and burlesque juggling, and Fairy Plum made a hit in her singing and dancing act. Harry Wallace, a baritone singer took well.

CORNER STONE LAYING SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Capt. Klein To Reopen Park

Capt. Klein, manager of the John L. Klein company, who recently purchased Coney Island park at receivers' sale, is working energetically to get affairs in shape to reopen the island park. It is possible that some attractions will be looked and the park kept open until the close of this season. Present plans include a large summer hotel on the grounds, which it is expected to have ready to receive guests at the opening of the season next year. Capt. Klein is now negotiating for the purchase of two additional excursion boats and wharfboat, which will give the company a fleet of three [illegible] to carry the people between this city and the park.

Committed But One.

Nicholas Pesse, who is serving his sixth consecutive term as justice of the peace of East Finley township, enjoys the unique distinction of having committed but one person to jail. This remarkable record of managing to steer clear of issuing commitments extends from May 1, 1882, to Thursday of the 24th inst., when, perforce, he was obliged to commit one Oliver Craig to the county bastile, the latter having been found guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct at a picnic given that day by the members of the Fairmont United Brethren church.

Pension Granted.

Stetler Gets Cold Feet

Wilkes-Barre, August 24.—Following the threat of blacklisting all players who remain with the outlaw team of the Atlantic league, this city and preventing them ever playing with a protected league, made recently by Secretary Farrell of the National commission, Manger Percy Stetler has resigned from the club. The club's business affairs will be looked after by S. C. Hartman, one of the owners. While on the field it will be directed by Catcher Donovan until Kohley Miller gets back in the game. Pitcher A. J. McCarty and Left Fielder Thomas Fogarty also takes Farrell's threat to heart and have resigned.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. intereet paid in savings department.

It has been demonstrated that the glacier does not move in one block, but flows, accommodating itself to the channel in which it moves. Professor Tyndall planted a row of sticks in a straight line across a glacier, and after a few days the line had become a crescent, with the concavity upward, showing that the middle of the glacier moved faster than the sides, just as in a river the stream is stronger in the center.

A FRIGHT IN MIDAIR

Going Up in a Balloon and Coming Down in a Parachute.

THE AGONY OF A FIRST TRIP

Experience and Sensations of an Acrobat Who Took the Place of a Professional Aeronaut in an Emergency. The Dash Through Space.

I once went up in a balloon and came down in a parachute. Something went wrong, and all the money in the world doubled would not induce me to make the experiment again.

One grows strangely accustomed to dangers as an acrobat, and when it was suggested that I should earn $25 in as many minutes by taking the place of a parachutist who had fallen ill at the last minute I jumped at the chance.

It was at a large country fair. The laughing crowd had probably never seen a balloon go up. As the great silk bag gradually swelled a silence fell upon the onlookers.

The sick parachutist's manager patted me on the back and said it was money easily earned. I agreed—then.

"Keep cool," he said, "and, whatever [illegible] judge your distance from the earth. You see that tower? It is about a thousand yards away. When you are that distance up pull the check string and shut your eyes."

A dull murmur rose as the ropes were cast off and I felt my feet leave the ground. The upward movement was [illegible] me until the band drowned it.

I [illegible] the cheering or the band. The involuntary murmur still rang in my ears. Perhaps my nerves were upset, possibly it was intuition, but from the moment I was drawn up from the ground I felt the conviction that some trouble lay ahead.

Ignoring the oft repeated instructions, I looked down. How slowly the balloon went up! Could it be possible that I had not gone more than a hundred yards? The giant overhead became a living thing, intent on torturing the puny mortal who had trusted his life to it. I knew I dared not leap before I was high enough, for the parachute takes 100 feet sometimes to open.

I shut my eyes and tried to count to kill time, but the figures became jumbled, and I looked down again. A swallow skimmed just underneath. Far below there was a sea of upturned faces, and the music floated up distinctly. The balloon seemed to have stopped rising, and for an eternity I tried to gauge the height.

Again the band stopped, and I was in a silent world. The crowd of breathless specks far beneath was getting full value for its money. The only noise I heard was the beating of the blood through my head. I was afraid. It was the first real fear I had ever felt in my work.

When the supreme moment came I pulled the string without realizing what I was doing.

What years I lived in those next few seconds. An appalling nausea and a wild desire to live came with the first terrible rush, and my heart stood still as I looked eagerly aloft. The ropes of the parachute had twisted, and I was falling to instant death.

Grasping the ropes in a clutch of steel, I shook them frantically. Half the huge parachute bellied out with a noise like a pistol shot, and the speed of the fall was checked with a jar.

Again I shook the death trap. The ropes were sliding at a snail's pace, and bit by bit the parachute was opening. Still I fell far too fast. I could not breathe, and my hands seemed to be refusing to hold on.

Bang! The last fold had opened out, and I was saved. Dizzy and numb with fear, I held on tightly, wondering whether I should faint before I touched the ground. That, and that only, was my thought as I sailed through the space. I had almost lost consciousness when my feet touched the ground gently. And then I collapsed.—Buffalo Times.

A Drawback.

"My!" exclaimed little Billy as he gazed at the lithograph. "I'd like to be a giraffe. Just think how easily you could 'rubber' over the baseball fence."

"That's all right," replied Tommy, "but there is another time when you wouldn't want to have a neck like a giraffe."

"When is that?"

"Why, in the mornings when your ma begins to scrub your neck with soap and water."—Chicago News.

Objectionable.

"I don't see why Goodley should be so unpopular with you all. He never speaks ill of any one."

"No, but he's one of those very smug fellows who can say 'Oh, yes, Jones seemed very happy when I saw him last,' and say it in such a way as to give the impression that Jones was horribly drunk."—Philadelphia Press.

A Spoiled Compliment.

Little Elmer—Mamma says you are a duck of a doctor. Pompous M. D. (greatly pleased)—Indeed! How did she come to say that? Little Elmer—Oh, she didn't say it just that way, but I heard her tell papa you were a quack.—Chicago News.

Ruskin's injunction to his servants: "Call me from my study whenever there is a beautiful sunset or any unusual appearance in the sky or landscape."

MAN SHOULD NOT DIE

There Is No Physiological Reason For Death.

THE BODY IS SELF RENEWING

Perfect Diet and Mode of Living Would Insure Exact Balance Between Bodily Waste and Renewal and Would Mean Physical Immortality.

"The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death," said the Scriptures, yet if some man attempted seriously to reassert this ancient truth today we would look upon him as a mad prophet indeed. Yet the time will come when men will be able to believe this promise of the Bible, although they may never see it literally fulfilled.

Death some day will be acknowledged to be as unnatural in the economy of the creative plant as are sin and suffering. But whether or not in some millennium perfect mortal man will be able to forego the great process of physical dissolution in becoming a spiritual body is a purely metaphysical question that does not enter here. What does interest us is the question, occupying the greatest scientists, whether the body can be retained in perfect condition indefinitely.

William A. Hammond, one of the great authorities, answers it by saying, "There is no physiological reason why man should die."

Thomas J. Allen, M. A., LL. D., writing in a similar strain, says: "The human body is a machine which must wear out by constant disintegration, for it is self renewing. It is a simple, scientific fact that we get an entirely new body every few years, estimated at from three to seven. Every day is a birthday, for the process of waste and renewal never ceases. Perfect balance between elimination and renewal would avoid permanent waste."

There is no doubt that when we become more enlightened and understand more of the laws that govern and determine our physical lives and when we conform to those religiously life will be immeasurably prolonged.

The decay of the body as evidenced in old age is unnatural. The aesthetic within us prefers to merely contemplate the approach. We feel that there must be some other alternative in the change when the strong and [illegible] healthy man and the fresh young girl in a few months take their departure, when for some on the cheeks fade, when the brilliant light within the eyes grows dim and the full, red lips become pale and fallen.

Medical science has pointed out the physiological cause of these conditions. Probably the time will come when it will be able to point out the manner of avoiding them.

We know that the body grows old because of the existence of an imperfect balance between the waste which the body accumulates and the amount it is able to throw off. During youth the balance is perfect, because the body has more than its normal vitality and strength to throw off the waste matter, but as we grow older this perfect balance becomes destroyed from one cause or another.

The strength that should go to eliminating impurities from the body is not husbanded, but rather squandered in different ways. Then, too, we eat and drink those things that cause excessive waste. An impure diet composed of toxic contained in [illegible] such as meat, or of drinks containing poisons, such as tea and coffee, taxes the eliminative powers, and when the time comes when these give way a state of imperfect elimination has set in, and the wastes in part are deposited in the system, settling in the arteries and joints of the body and accumulating until they become obstructive elements.

The blood stream circulates imperfectly, and when once this condition exists bad functioning of every organ of the body results, and old age and death gradually ensue.

Mind, too, has a great deal to do in hastening or retarding the unpleasant signs of physical decay. Mental science has satisfactorily demonstrated that mean, narrow, selfish and unpleasant thoughts act destructively on the tissues of the body, while thoughts of a wholesome and positive character act constructively.

And when the curtains of "the windows of the soul" are drawn, when the temple's door is closed and a final silence is within, when the spirit passes the threshold to take up a newer and finer edifice of its own creation, science assures us that the body lives on. Here at least physical immortality is an assured fact.

Theology has irreligiously taught us that the body returns to inanimate dust. The religious answer of science is that it returns to God. The latest word in the field of biology is that all nature, including the all mother soil, is animated and hallowed with the divine principle of life.

More than this, matter is indestructible and eternal. There is not an atom that can be lost in all the universe. For this reason our bodies do not really die. They are in the care of the angels of the elements.

The peculiar cellular arrangement that formed them into a beautiful body may be caused to disintegrate through the action of the oxygen upon it, time may change the position of the atoms composing it, but the latter still contain within themselves the sacred and eternal principle of life as much as does the soul, and they exist only to enter into new and perhaps more beautiful combinations of life.—Health.

at their home, No. 1526 East Baltimore street. Mrs. Rosenbloom and her daughter had lived in a flat at the East Baltimore street house since July 14, last, having come to this city from Windber, the scene of the murder, because one of the sons of the family, Harry Rosenbloom, was employed here.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 25.—District Attorney John Lewis, of Somerset county, has asked the county commissioner of that county to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of Alexander Rosenbloom, who is now alleged to be connected with the death of his father at Windber, Pa.

Joseph and Louis Adler, brothers, living at 120 Monroe street New York City have been arrested by the New York police.

Mr. Louis Rosenbloom of Charleroi is still in the East and the family here say they have not heard a word from him. It is hardly likely that he will be held as knowing anything of the murder.

PITTSBURG EXPOSITION OPENS SEPTEMBER 2

Theodore Thomas Orchestra and Many Fine Exhibits

Wednesday evening, Sept. 2, will mark the opening of the twentieth season of the Pittsburg Exposition, the Theodore Thomas orchestra of Chicago, with Frederick Stock as conductor, having been accorded the honor of launching the "best season ever" at the junction of the three rivers. The Thomas orchestra opened the year's events last season at the exposition and so popular was it that there was an immediate clamor that it be reengaged for this season.

While music will, of course, be one of the greatest features of the exposition this year, as in years gone by, never before have there been so many interesting displays installed as at present. All of the exhibition space in Machinery hall and the main building has been allotted to exhibitors who promise and who are putting in entirely new attractions.

The musical attractions for the season are as follows, a galaxy of the most notable organizations in the country:

Theodore Thomas orchestra, Sept. 2 to Sept. 8; John Philip Sousa, Sept. 9 to 19, inclusive; Russian symphony orchestra, Sept. 21 to 26, inclusive; Arthur Pryor and his band, Sept. 26 to Oct. 3, inclusive; Bostonia women's orchestra, Oct. 5 to 10, inclusive; Creatore's band, Oct. 12 to 17; Damrosch and the New York symphony orchestra, Oct. 19 to 24.

In Machinery hall this season there will be something new on every hand. The Carnegie Steel company is now installing a display to contain an exact model of "Fighting Bob" Evans's flagship Connecticut, the display to occupy a space of more than 12,000 square feet. It will be an exact model, the battleship having been erected almost entirely of Pittsburg products, the armor plate having been supplied by the Carnegie Steel company. In the Hippodrome there will be a realistic military spectacle, picturing the Spanish war. This will be one of the greatest works of realism ever presented at the exposition. Then there will be startling electrical innovations in Machinery hall; a complete plant installed by the Pittsburg Steel company showing the manufacture of wire fence.

Among the new attractions in the main building will be an electrical scenic cyclorama, "A Day in Japan." The Pennsylvania Railroad company will have a display tending to show the evolution of railroading during the past century. It will consist of three models, the old Conestoga wagon and mules; the canal boat and mules and the first engine ever to travel over the Pennsy, the "Lancaster." A gallery of 400 notables, men who have assisted in making Greater Pittsburg, will adorn a prominent space along the main aisle of the main building.

The theatorium, merry-go-round, roller coaster, Ferris wheel, pony track and all of the other amusements for the young and old are being put in readiness for the twentieth season.

The negro question will not down. A bloody race war in the city of Abraham Lincoln accentuates the ominous fact that the issue is no longer sectional. Now, from Tennessee comes a report of a conflict there where the question is not complicated by any individual's crime, as an incentive to strife. The determination of a coal mining company to work nergo miners along with white has precipitated a situation resembling civil war.

All this red tumult, whatever its primary local significance, speaks to the nation the big truth that there is, inextricably bound up with the existence of the black man in America, a tremendous social and political problem. It is a grave question, steadily growing graver. Already it is confronting the serious-minded citizenship of all sections of the country. Countless remedies are being propounded, some of them unworthy of consideration, and some holding promise of helpfulness. But no solution yet proposed is in itself entirely sufficient.

Just now it is of chief importance that the whole people be made aware of the reality and gravity of this present problem. Only thus can they be prepared to face it soberly, intelligently and with self-restrain; and, moreover, only thus, by an appeal to their best manhood, can they be safe guarded against the plea of passion the dogmas of the demagogue and the madness of the mob.

It is estimated that there are 34,100 men idle at present in the building trade of New York City. Of the 100,000 skilled mechanics in that city 30,000 are still idle. Labor leaders are surprised that conditions have not improved more rapidly.

Not.

"Shall we marry, darling, or shall we knot?" was the short and witty line an ardent lover dispatched to the idol of his heart.

But, where the strangeness of the matter comes in, the girl replied: "I shall not. You may do as you please."
